

ATA GLD members who work with old German documents, printed or handwritten.

The following translators have indicated their ability to translate both printed and handwritten German documents, including those written in old German script, also known as Kurrent or Sütterlin. The list is alphabetical by last name. Inclusion does not constitute endorsement. In narrowing your choices, please consider training and experience. In addition to the web links provided, professional profiles for ATA members can be found at <https://www.atanet.org/directory> (select "Search by Keyword or Name" and click on "Submit").
