Thank you for your interest in writing for the S&TD Division Blog. The following editorial guidelines will help you prepare your submission.

Submission Format

Please send your submissions as MS word attachment to our blog editor: scitechblogeditor@gmail.com.

Length:

- Article: The recommended length is 1,000 - 2,000 words. Longer articles could be divided into two or more parts.
- Title: The title should briefly identify the subject and indicate the purpose of the article.
- Author Biography: Include a brief biography (about 150 words) with your article. The bio should include your contact information, e.g., links to your website, LinkedIn etc.

Photos/Graphics:

- Submit all graphics (photos, charts, diagrams, etc.) as separate high-resolution JPEG files.
- Non-European Characters: Please provide a PDF file of the document if it contains non-European characters (i.e., Japanese and Arabic).

General Writing Tips

- Content should be original, not something that has appeared elsewhere in a blog (though the material can be adapted from older posts or publications).
- Avoid long blocks of text. Break down the main points of the article into sections with subheads.
- Do not attempt to cover everything about a particular topic in one article. Narrow the focus of discussion to a few main areas.
- Text must not be "advertorial," promotional, or "marketing" in nature. Avoid self-promotion and make sure the text is not biased toward your products and services. With this in mind, you can demonstrate how the product can be used and highlight your level of expertise through the use of specific examples that are easy to follow.
- All submissions will be evaluated by our blog editor(s) and reviewed by ATA Headquarters. All articles are subject to editing for grammar, style, punctuation, and space limitations.
- Articles written by non-native English writers will be polished until it is indistinguishable from native speaker contributions.
General Style Guidelines

ATA follows The Chicago Manual of Style. There are also certain style practices that are specific to ATA (see below). Where appropriate, the relevant section in The Chicago Manual of Style is noted below, for example (Chicago, 5.25). Here are some general rules to keep in mind during the writing process.

Abbreviations/ Acronyms/ Initialisms:

- Spell out the full name of a term the first time it is used, followed by the abbreviation in parentheses. Use the abbreviation for all subsequent appearances.
- When you refer to an association, corporation, or business for the first time, use its full name, followed by its initials in parentheses. If possible, include the city and state or country where the organization is headquartered. If applicable, please include a website for more information. In subsequent references, either use the abbreviation or say “the association,” “the organization,” or “the society.”
- When the abbreviation is used in subsequent text, it should not be preceded by the.

Capitalization:

- Academic Degrees: Do not capitalize academic degrees.
- Job Titles: Capitalize titles when they precede a person’s name (Executive Director John Smith says...), but lowercase them when they follow the name (John Smith, executive director of...).
- Organizations, committees, and conferences: Capitalize complete official names. Lowercase them when they become general (Chicago 7.50-7.62).
